Summary - What do you gain from bringing me on? Well, I have . . .

an unquenchable desire for continued learning. The creative juices flowing through my veins keeps me curious, positive and innovative.

a healthy view of failure, viewing it as a critical form of learning and growth. Failures, while temporary, are capable of creating increased quality and a much wider perspective.

total focus on team success and utilizing our collective strengths for the mutual benefit of a person, a team, a company, a community. We fail together, we succeed together.

critical thinking with unmatched problem solving and research proficiency. I love overcoming challenges and forging new paths that achieve goals and grow projects.

Experience - What formed me? What critical skills have I gained? . . .

Web Development & Graphic Design

Starting with graphic design right out of High School cemented my love for computers and what they can do. Along the way I did freelance logo design locally and internationally. I have designed and built numerous websites for myself and others, and am now engrossed in my Front End Developer path!

- This field fulfills a huge sense of accomplishment for me, I love it
- Seeing a project develop and come alive is so exciting to me
- Discovering bugs and challenges along the way drives my interest and determination
- I've always had the "I won't be beat" attitude and am known as the "MacGyver" of solutions

Automotive Service Management

I have spent many years managing and mentoring teams. These teams consisted of automotive technicians, service advisors, and all other staff associated with my departments.

- Daily, hourly, minute by minute problem solving
- Very technically driven research processes
- Maintaining a positive outlook and being goal driven
- Laser focused on team building and creating a positive and enjoyable culture
- Extreme analytical data absorption and processing

Business Owner - Home Remodeling

Being a business owner of any kind provides a unique perspective that creates a thorough understanding of an employer's needs. With that knowledge I want to support my employer and influence others around me to do the same in a spirit of willingness, not obligation

- Extremely self-motivated and hungry to succeed
- Working both on teams and solo to achieve whatever goal was needed
- Seeing the value in proficiency and streamlining processes
- Teaching not only by "the book" but most importantly - by example
- Being resourceful to accomplish detailed tasks even when lacking that particular skill

Skills - My current course of study . . .

with much more to come!
